THE Will...

THE highest honor we, the class of 1956, can bestow is the dedication of our yearbook.

With the greatest honor, respect and devotion, the senior class has dedicated this issue to one of its most worthy instructors and friends, Mr. Charles Black.

He possesses the great virtue of thoughtful consideration for others and faithful willingness to help those in need of friendly advice.

A graduate of Westminster College, he has obtained his B.S. degree in Education, and Master of Science in Education.

To him the senior class gives thanks and wishes for a bright future.

Mr. Charles Black

DEDICATION

"THEME"

The senior year is a difficult one. Decisions that will affect our entire lives must be made. For many, it will be the last chance for formal education, and for still others, it is the last chance to raise those grades to pass college entrance requirements. When the time comes for caps and gowns, we realize how far the years ahead reach and how few the years of preparation have been.

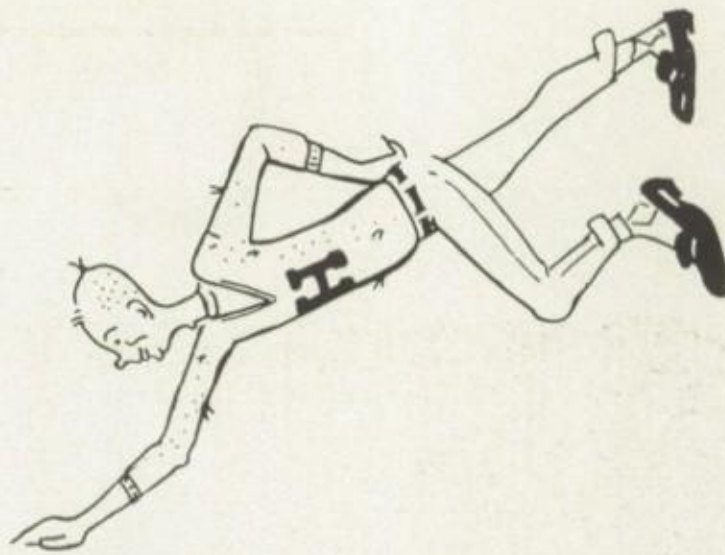

What has been gained in the twelve years of books, teachers, and school buses? We have gained some knowledge, but such a pitifully small amount compared to the vast amounts that still must be gained if we are ever to live helpful and complete lives. Friendships have been gained only to be lost again, when we have received our diplomas and go our separate ways. We have worn out books, marked up desks, and made teachers old before their time.

What have we gained? This yearbook will try to give the answer. We now have the desire to go on. The ambition that we will call "The will to . . ."

"The will to learn," to add knowledge that is ours.

"The will to work," to put this knowledge to use.

"The will to live," to become useful citizens and to our own way of thinking, successful. To do a piece of work and be proud that we have done it to the best of our ability.

1955

Junior Senior

Prom

Queens

On a crisp evening in October, our Homecoming Queen and her court rode before the Sharon Stadium.

Pat, so adorable in her white gown of nylon tulle, had Audrey Urban and Susie Rhoades as her attendants.

Our retiring Queen, Mary Tallarico, who looked very becoming in her flowing white gown of nylon ruffles, completed the court.

Later in the hush of the decorated gym, Mary led the court to the gold throne where she sat until Pat approached her. In the silence Mary crowned Pat Niec, football queen for the coming year.

One moment to remember . . . the crowning of a new queen.

School Calendar

Wildo rushed out of the house and ran to the bus stop. He didn't want to be late today, not September 7, 1955, the first day of his senior year. Wildo thought that he might try the new drivers training course if he had room on his schedule.

When he got to school, he found that his fellow classmates were already exchanging their class pictures. In the first Hickory Leaf that came out, Wildo found out that the band would wear new uniforms, and that Bill Gaugh had been elected president of the senior class.

Wildo sat at the homecoming game and later watched as Mary Tallerico crowned Pat Nice the new queen. He marched with the band, when they won the second prize in the Hallowe'en Parade.

In November, Wildo lost a lot of weight. Between rehearsing for the class play and worrying about what his teachers would say to his parents at open house, he became thinner than ever. Thank goodness for Thanksgiving vacation. Wildo attended the assembly at which Dan Fentress was chosen to represent Hickory in the regional contest for the Voice of Democracy finals. Wildo attended every football game right up to the end of the season.

Wildo was saddened to hear that one of his former teachers, Mrs. Tarr was resigning at the end of the first semester. He also saw the plans for the new high school. They are waiting for Wildo and his class-mates to graduate before they trust students in a new school. After much coaxing and arguing Wildo asked a girl to the Christmas Ball. He spent the first part of his vacation getting ready and the last part recovering.

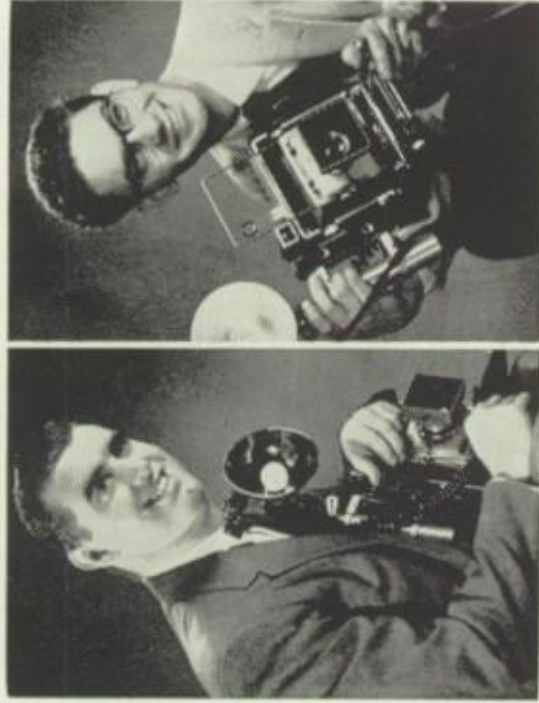

New Years resolution in hand Wildo returned to school. It is his last chance to improve his school record. Wildo is glad that he made it for district band.

Wildo didn't make state band, but it was time for district orchestra, so he didn't mind much. To his surprise Wildo was asked to be an escort for the Valentine Dance. The basketball season came to a close, and he had to admit it was the best in many years.

School Calendar

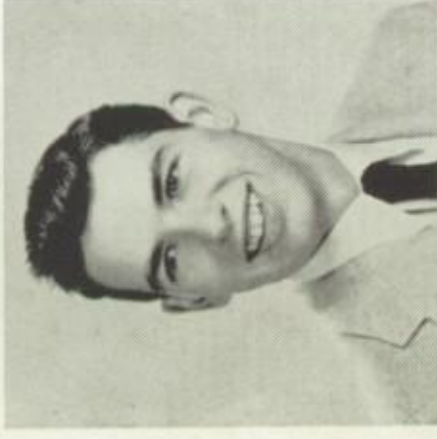

Wildo sat in the audience while the Junior Class put on their play. He watched as some of his friends went to State Orchestra and the trip to Youngstown for the Industrial Exhibition.

On Wildo's birthday, everything went wrong. Of course, this could happen because it just happened to fall on April Fool's day. The student body was quiet at the last assembly. The seniors seemed to sense it was their last time to sit with their underclassmen. His brain was stretched to the limit when it was time for the Iowa tests. Easter vacation was welcomed, as is anything that will cause school to close for a little while.

The last month in Hickory High came, and Wildo felt a mixture of joy, relief, sorrow, and just plain tiredness. The music department gave the final Choral and Instrumental Festival.

Practice for Commencement and Baccalaureate took up a lot of Wildo's time. He ran himself and all his family wild when packing for the senior trip to Washington. Final tests, the last school dance, the Junior-Senior Prom and twelve years of study came to a close.

Superintendent

The superintendent is the center of the administration for the school system. He holds a very important position and takes much time to constitute a smooth running school system.

Mr. Delahunty takes charge of recommendations concerning extra-curricular activities, such as athletics, adult education classes, recreational programs.

The superintendent works hard to arrange the school budget and makes arrangements to purchase school books and supplies.

The success of any group depends on its leadership.

The growth and betterment of our school system may be attributed in part to the fine leadership of Mr. Delahunty.

Much credit is due Mr. Delahunty for the way in which he has shown leadership in our school system.

...To Work

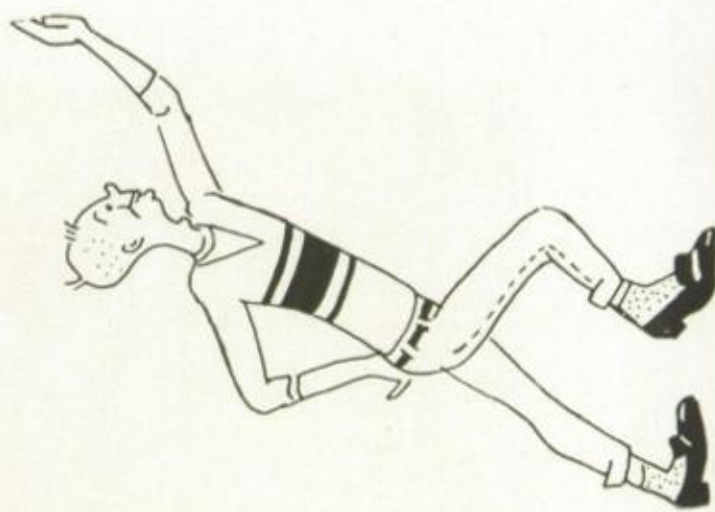

Mr. McBride, Miss Artman, Mrs. Patterson, Mr. Stewart.

Guidance Department

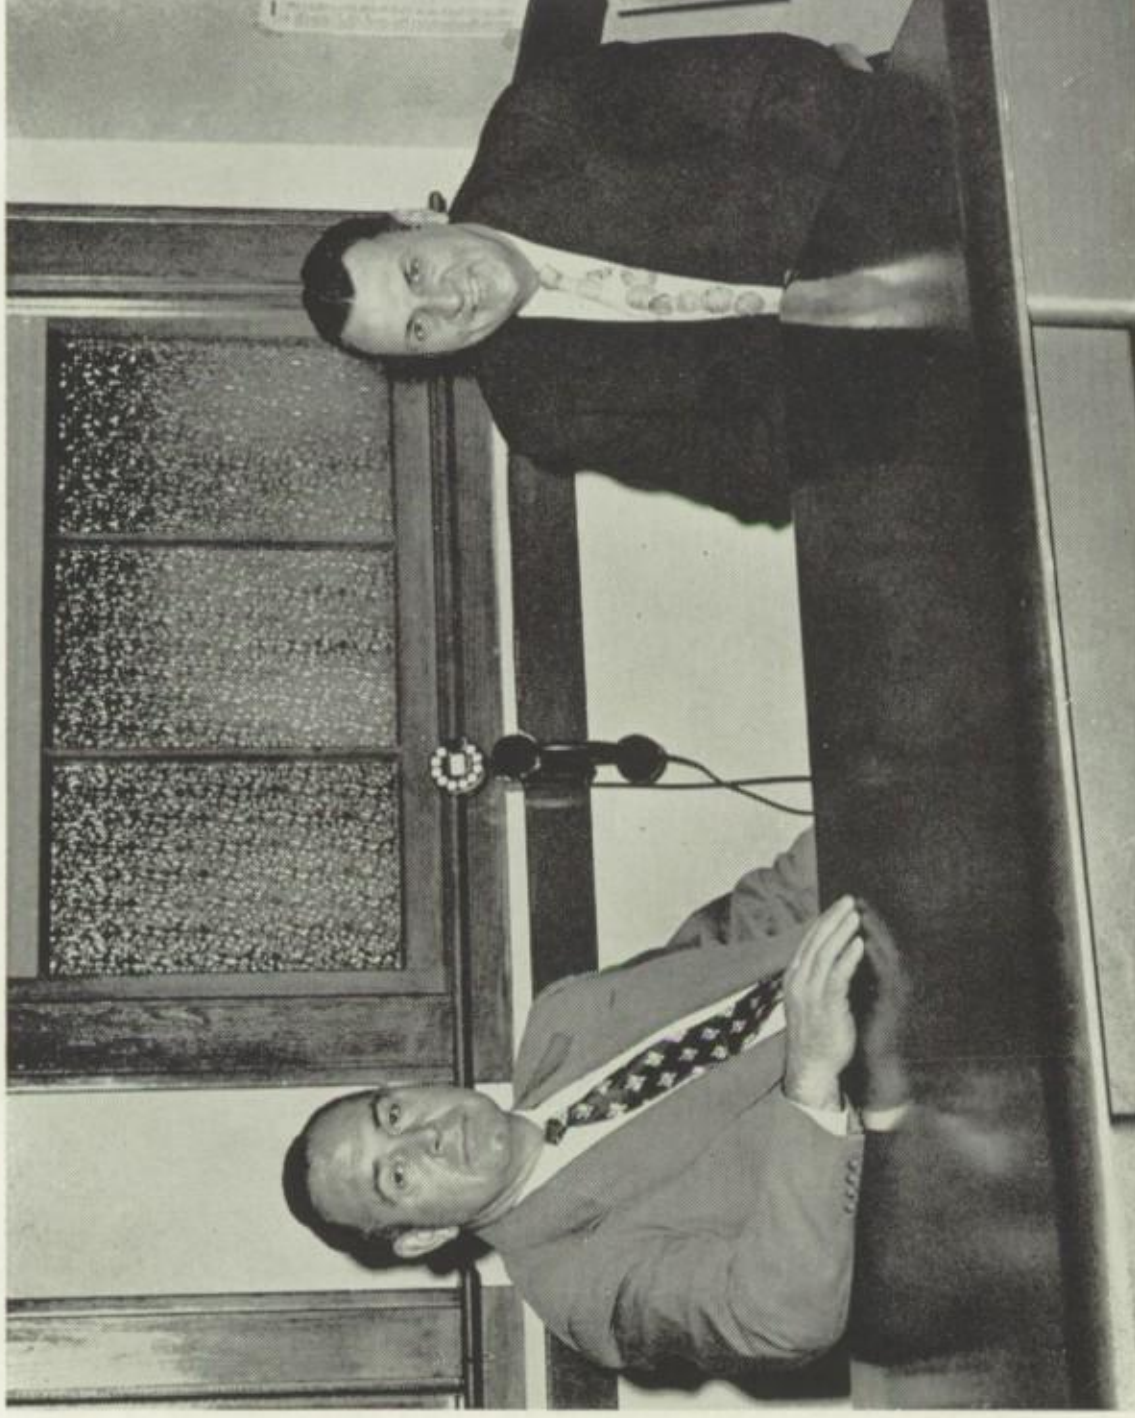

The Guidance department performs a special function in our school system. Students may get help on problems they face in everyday life. Guidance aids in acquainting students with social and moral responsibilities.

Each class in junior and senior high school has a dean of girls and a dean of boys. These deans work together in order to help solve problems for the boys and girls at Hickory.

The guidance department also administers the achievement program. This program gives information on each pupil's background and aids in mapping his curriculum. The overall result is to give each student a schedule fitted to his plans for the future.

Principals

Mr. Reimold, Mr. Stoner.

Our principal's office is the center of school life and activities for both students and teachers.

In the mornings we find them writing excuses for students who were tardy or absent from school. Attendance records for every month, absentees, failure reports are all kept in this office.

Students can always be found in this office booking dates for dances and club activities on the school calendar.

The principal is always willing to speak with any student and give him helpful advice.

Math

Department

Math is taught to give each student a command of the fundamental processes of arithmetic and higher mathematics. This knowledge is needed to get a job and keep personal money and property matters in order.

Our school offers courses in all fields of arithmetic. These courses include: algebra, physics, trig, consumer math, and plane geometry.

Knowledge of everyday applications of math are emphasized most. This includes the teaching of measurements, banking, insurance, and taxes.

If mathematics were destroyed we could neither count nor measure. The foundation of knowledge is mathematics.

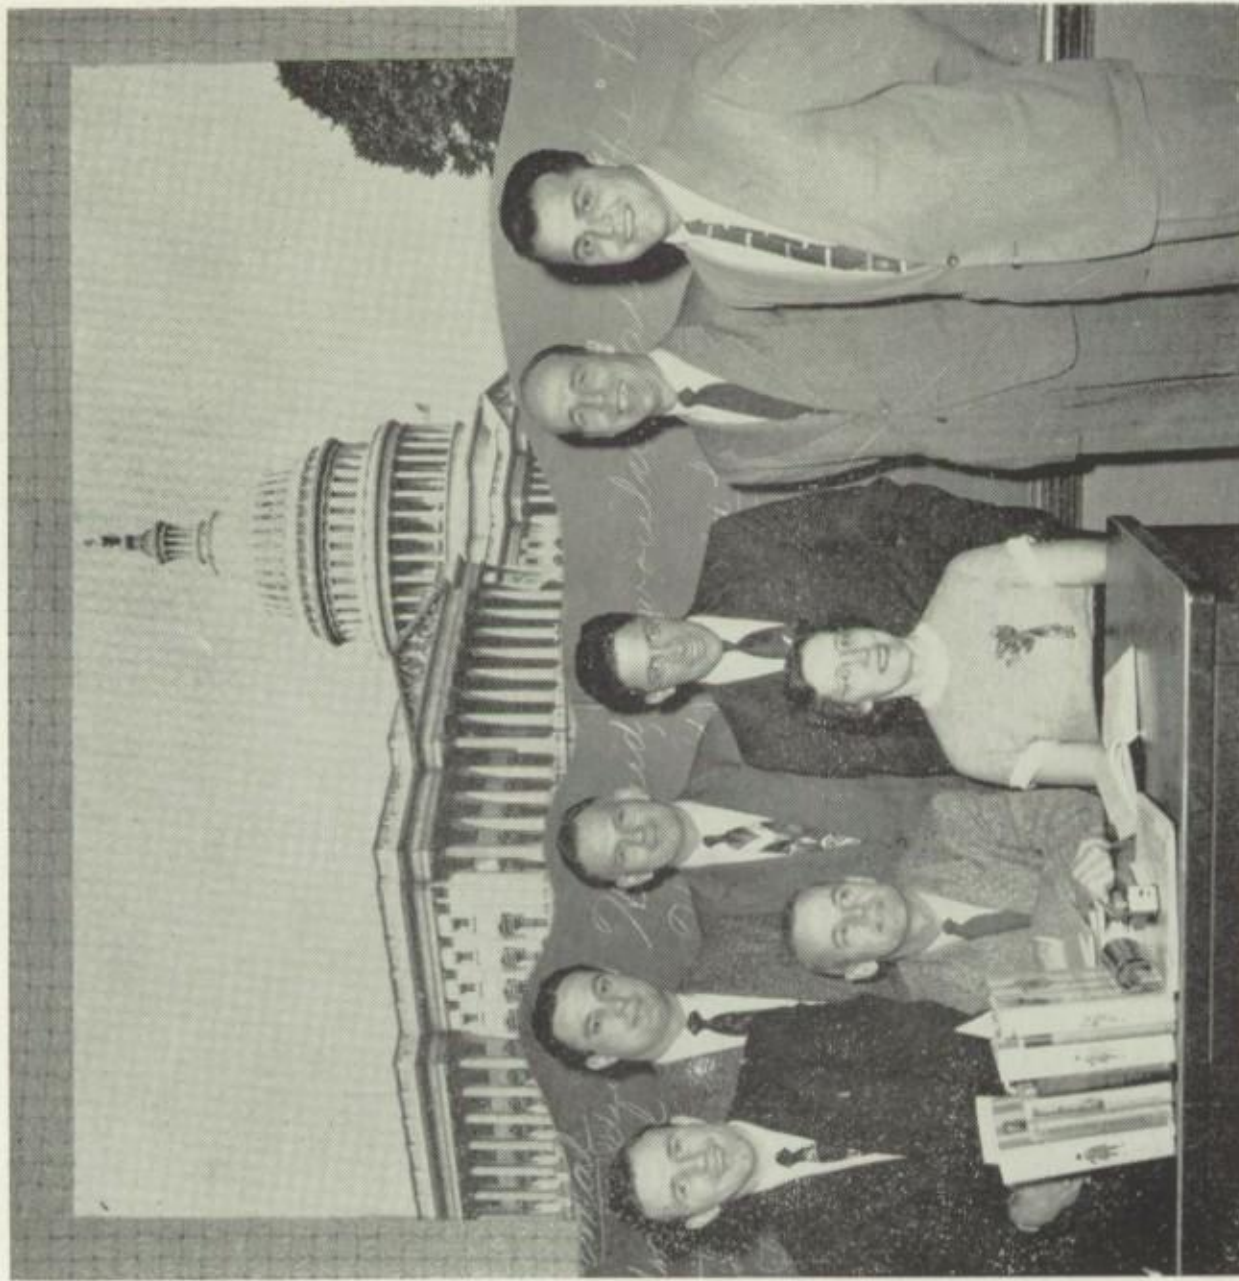

Seated: Mrs. Wehner, Mr. Stewart, Mrs. Garrett; Standing: Mr. Mook, Mr. Black

Department

Our Social Studies Department helps to build background for our American way of life.

Regardless of how rich or poor a person may be — how intelligent he is, how white, how yellow, or how black — he is still a human being and has the right to ask that he be treated as such. Being able to get along with and seeing the other fellow's point of view will go a long way toward making life worth living.

Democracy is our way of life. A better informed citizen makes a better informed government. The teaching of these facts in social studies classes will aid in keeping our democracy strong and undivided.

Seated: Mr. Ohr, Mrs. Sloan.
Standing: Mr. Lewis, Mr. Bigenho, Mr. Currie, Mr. MacDonald, Mr. Webster,
Mr. Benardi.

English

Department

The English Department offers an opportunity for students to construct a thorough background of knowledge of our English language.

The student becomes familiar with the language they speak by expressing themselves creatively, both orally and in writing.

To teach students to express themselves well, is the objective of the English department. Our success in the business and social world depends on how well we have learned our language fundamentals.

The student is urged to do his own thinking and writing and to form opinions of his own while studying in order to help him further his knowledge of the world.

Seated: Mrs. Crawshaw, Mrs. Miller.
Standing: Mrs. Crowell, Mrs. Evens, Mrs. Monteith, Mrs. Maine.

Science

Department

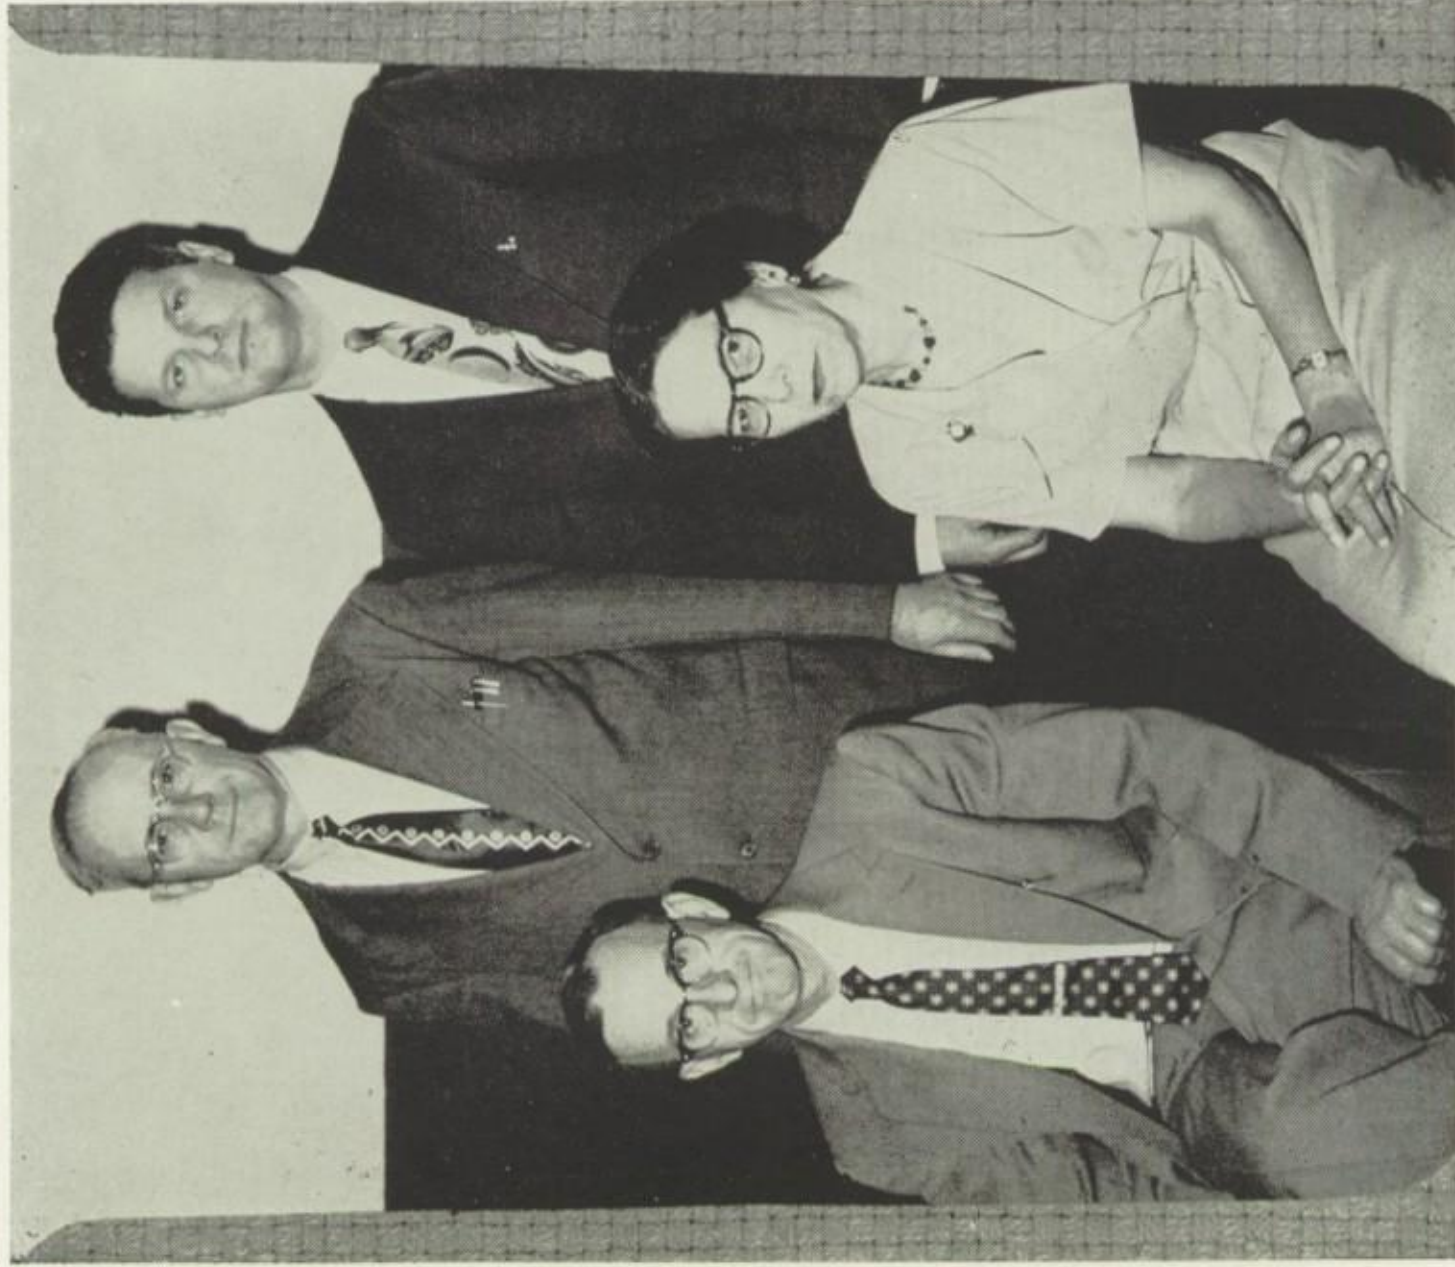

Science helps us to live more happily and more profitably in our environment.

In this ever changing world, science plays a very important part.

Our science courses offer the students a chance to fit themselves, to the best of their ability, into this civilization by presenting what is already known about our world.

Whether it's developing pictures, building, cooking, painting, or preparing for college; the courses in chemistry and physics give the necessary background to live in this ever changing world and to further our education.

As an elective course, juniors and seniors may choose general, college preparatory, or advanced chemistry which all deal with the different kinds of chemical behavior.

Seated: Mr. Hollibaugh, Miss Bevlyn.
Standing: Mr. Enterline, Mr. Mudrak.

Industrial Arts

The industrial arts program at Hickory includes general technical drawing, general drawing, general woodworking, and general metal working. Students enrolled in these classes learn to design and build useful articles. While building, students are learning fundamentals which will aid them in selecting a good home and better quality furnishings. After they become home owners, manual arts forms the background for effective maintenance.

In general the purpose of industrial arts is to foster the development of a strong foundation in the skills, knowledges, and attitudes in technical matters that is needed for happy and effective living in America.

Mr. Mangus, Mr. Johnston, Mr. Brown.

The vocational and general homemaking department is a three-year elective.

Some of the areas of study are: food preparation, preservation, nutrition, good grooming, clothing selection and construction, child care and development, personal, family and social relationships, tailoring, consumer buying, home planning and furnishing, home nursing, textiles, leisure time activities, budgets, and interior decorating.

The home economic course is a diversified one and prepares the student for college, nursing, or homemaking. Experiences of everyday living are practiced by the girls. The course is very interesting.

General home economics is a course for the academic student and a refresher before entering adulthood.

Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Andree.

Commercial

Department

Miss Gaiser, Miss Adams, Mrs. Moore

The Elective Commercial Course is open to all girls interested in using the required knowledge to secure jobs in the business world.

Actual practice is the key idea in this work. The fact that the students secure much knowledge under actual working conditions, while taking the course, aids them in becoming more efficient. The students are rated highly by the business men of the valley.

One responsibility of a school system is to see that the community understands what the school is accomplishing. In training and placing students in particular jobs, the business department is supporting a public relations need.

Health

The Health Department functions primarily as a preventive agency. Every two years a health examination is given to the students. This is to help eliminate any difficulties that may arise. Shots are given. Anyone having throat trouble has a throat culture taken to detect what type of virus it is. The seniors get a free X-ray taken each year by the Tuberculosis Society.

The department is equipped with three rooms. There is the main office, and two rooms with cots.

Mrs. Frantz is the head of the department. She is there at all times during the day to give medical aid to students and faculty.

Dorotha Frantz, Dr. S. Wm. Amundsen.

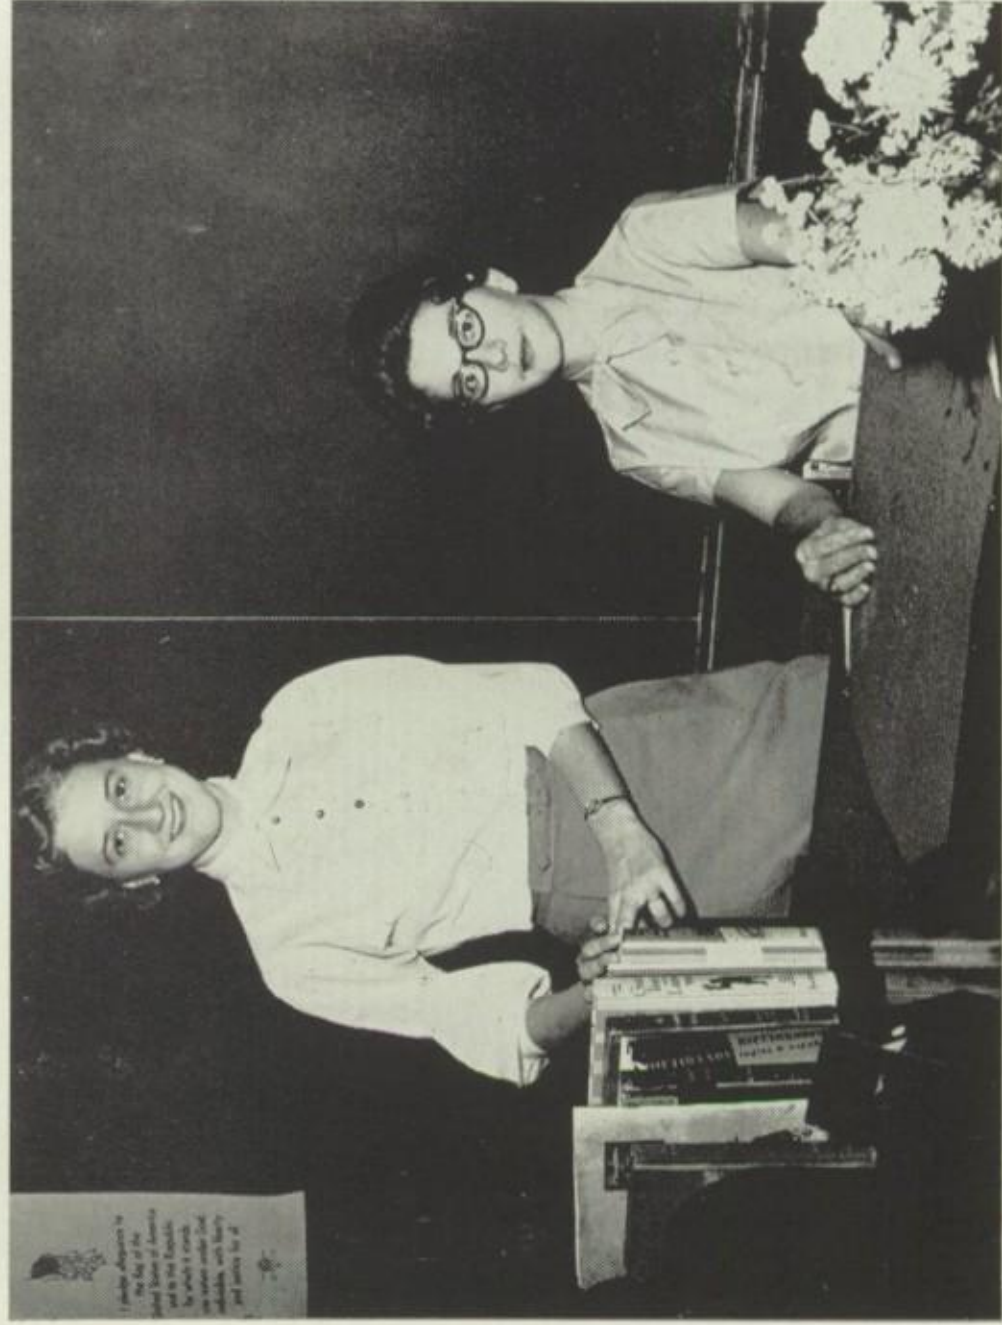

Speech

An important feature of every day life is the way we make use of vocal communication.

Speech activities help us value important information given to students on how to prepare debates, write plays, technique of acting, how to prepare and give speeches, and other information which will be important in most phases of the future.

Speech is an optional subject and is open to freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Students in the primary and elementary grades may take advantage of special courses to help correct speech difficulties.

The department is equipped with record players, tape recorders, disc recorders, and a library of reference texts, readings, and plays.

Mrs. Schwartz, Miss Christy

Mr. Brinkley

Journalism

Journalism provides the background for active as well as passive participation in newspaper work.

For those interested in the active, journalism provides a background and understanding of the field for the beginning reporter.

For the passive, journalism provides an understanding of the newspaper so that it can be read intelligently.

Art

Students enrolled in art classes learn the basic fundamentals of designing, poster painting, illustration, and handi-craft.

The course also teaches good taste in color combination and aids students in creating art objects for their homes. Art education helps the student in forming background for future use in home decoration and for a career.

Mrs. Lake

Mr. Green

Library

The library is the school's "material center." Its purpose is to house and prepare books, pamphlets, maps, films, records, and other related educational materials, for distribution.

The library is the nerve center of the teaching-learning situation. Here both student and teacher can select those materials that best meet their individual learning demands.

Language

Department

Students of Hickory High School are offered two languages as electives, Spanish or Latin.

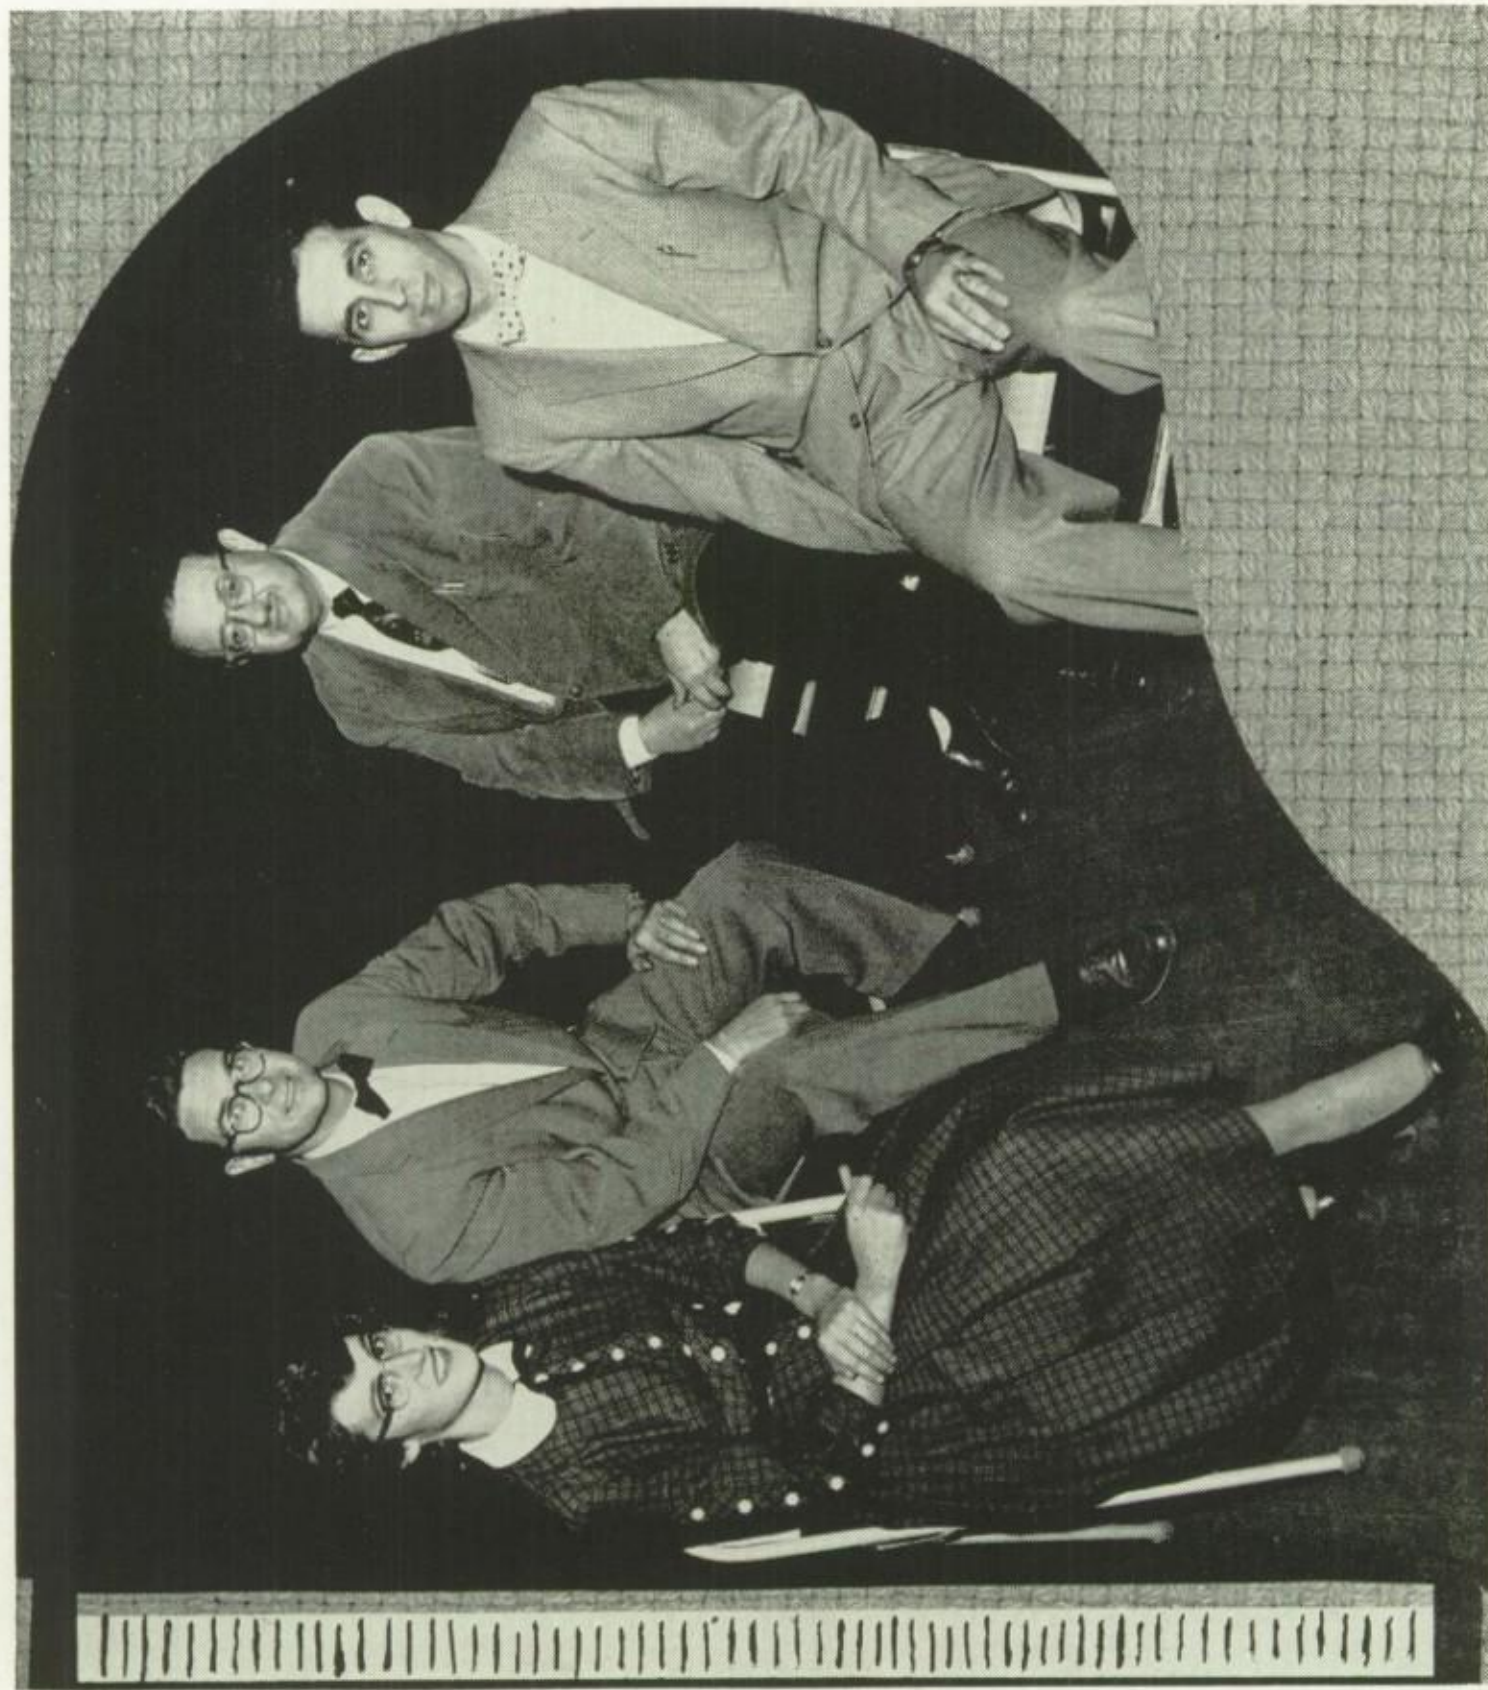

Many of our daily English words come from the Latin language. In this course, the student learns to read, understand, and obtain some knowledge of Roman civilization. It is studied by those interested in professions of medicine, nursing, ministry, pharmacy or teaching.

Spanish is a two year course at Hickory High School.

Many of the students have joined the Spanish and Latin Clubs, and have enjoyed many of the parties and plays that they have taken part in. The Spanish Department of Hickory High School was organized in 1942. Both organizations have been engaged in and have promoted numerous school projects.

Mrs. Donner, Mrs. Miller

Mrs. Caldwell, Mr. Falkner, Mr. Cohen, Mr. Kulusich.

Music

Department

One of the many activities designed to promote interest in our school is the music department. We have both the instrumental and vocal departments in the high school.

Included under the heading of music is our band and orchestra. Supporting the band and orchestra are the free instrumental instructions which are given to any student who desires to take them. Our band music includes spirited numbers, light classical, heavier symphonic, and popular numbers.

Our school has come a long way in increasing the love, appreciation, and importance of music in our lives.

Secretaries

The high school office is always a bustle of activity where students and teachers collect in search of varied information. Channeling this activity is the job of the secretaries.

Here is where all excuses, passes, tardy slips, and other slips are signed. Morning bulletins and mimeographing are done in these offices by our secretaries.

A very important file in the office is the accumulative records. These are kept on file for each student and indicate yearly advancements. Comments by the teachers are written into these records. The secretaries make good use of this information to make recommendations and to send grades to various colleges.

Miss Janens, Miss Horvath, Miss Avril.

Mrs. Lilly

A secretary's job fulfills an important niche in our administrative set up. The daily schedule in the superintendent's office is a very full one.

At the Maple Drive Municipal Building we have a very cheerful and capable person in charge of these duties.

Working as secretary to the superintendent calls for many and varied duties. Among these are making out the payroll and keeping accounts.

S. Titus, R. Rager, L. Urban, A. Santee, U. Popovitch, C. VanCise, R. Nickel, J. Wheaton, O. Coulter, R. Hogue, B. Anderson, A. Hogue.

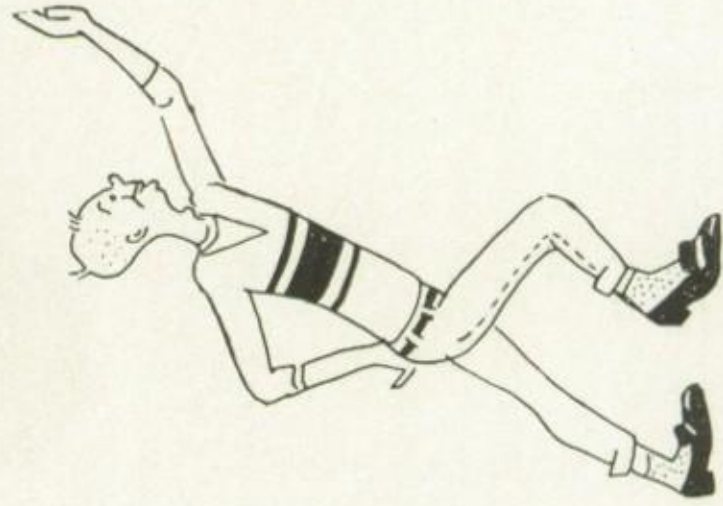

Bus Drivers

Our force of bus drivers provides the transportation to and from school every day. In addition they take students on field trips to areas of special interest.

They run a very accurate schedule, and this year they are kept busy with the change of schedule which affects the high school and elementary school.

The friendly attitude between bus drivers and students makes for a very close harmony.

In all kinds of weather our bus drivers are always on the job.

Maintenance

"Behind the scenes" is a good term to describe the functions of the maintenance department. School life revolves around their duties. Among these necessities are the maintenance and cleaning of the classrooms; maintaining the heating system; and keeping the complex boilers, and other equipment operating efficiently.

The department occupies the summer with the painting and repairing of different parts of the buildings so that they will be in top condition for the new school term.

Seated: Mrs. Parshall, Mr. Pannin. Standing: Mr. McClimans.

It is composed of twelve members. Nine voting members are selected from the Senior High School.

The council has prepared many interesting and informative assemblies for the student body. They also sponsor the Homecoming dance and other various school activities throughout the year.

The president is Clyde Beachy. Mr. Reimold supervises the Student Council.

These girls take great pride in their work and are proud to help the school in any way possible. Free periods are given up by the girls to do this job.

Projection Crew

The projection crew is an important organization in our high school. They set up and run all movies shown in classes.

Students learn by seeing the world in action at the same time they are hearing about it and reading about it. Movies provide this chance to see what would take thousands of dollars in field trips to visit.

Members of the projection crew, as well as providing an educational service, advance themselves personally. This experience comes as a result of their courteous cooperation with the faculty and being responsible for valuable equipment.

The requirements to be met by the members are cooperation, courtesy, responsibility, and good scholastic standing.

The crew is led by Mrs. Helen Louise Donner assisted by Mr. George Hollibaugh.

Chair Crew

One of the many handicaps of having a combined gymnasium and auditorium is smoothed out by the cooperation and efficiency of the chair crew.

The efficiency of this crew depends upon cooperation and willingness to work.

The boys give up many free periods to prepare the gym for school activities.

It seems a small job to those not participating, but for these boys it is important and requires hustle.

Office Aids

Office aids learn by experience. They supplement the school secretaries by taking over some of the general tasks. By being around the office and helping with the work these girls gain in valuable practical experience.

Pat Maine is the girl we see hustling about each morning with the daily bulletin. Delores Messere and Pat Campbell keep the supply room organized and deliver necessary equipment to the classrooms.

Choir

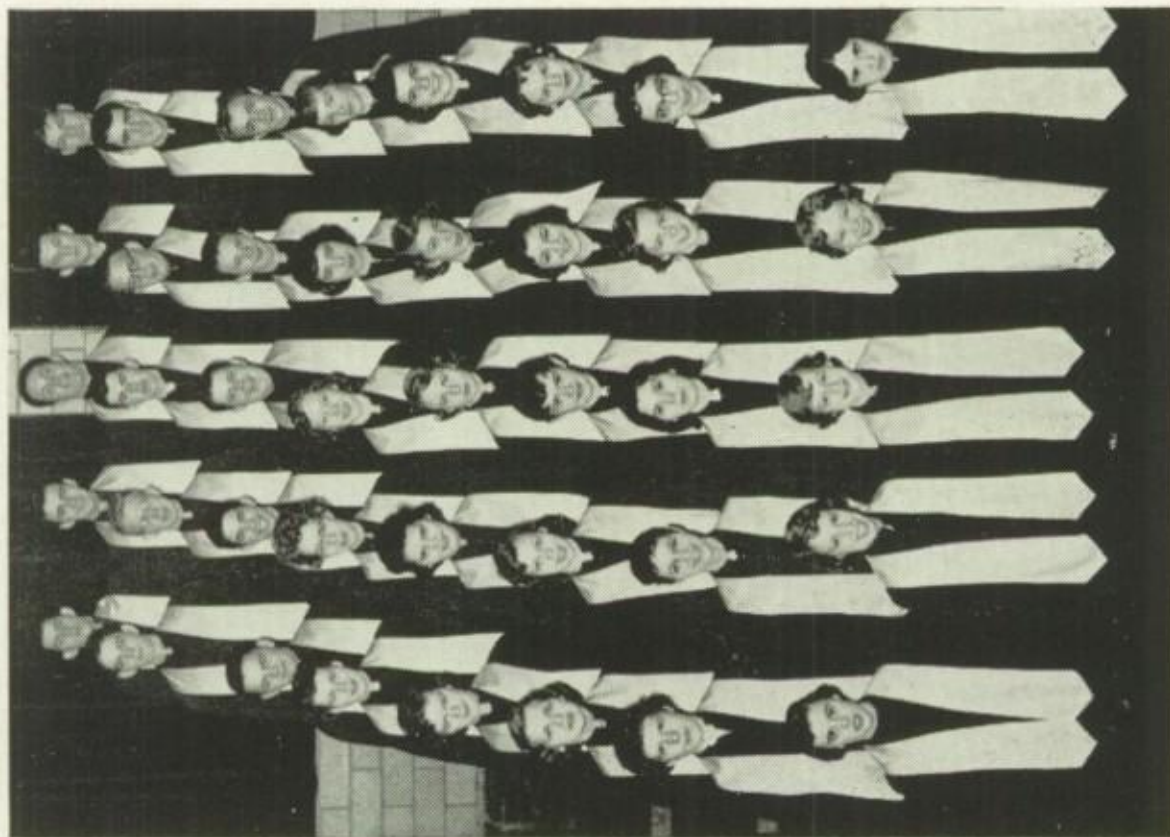

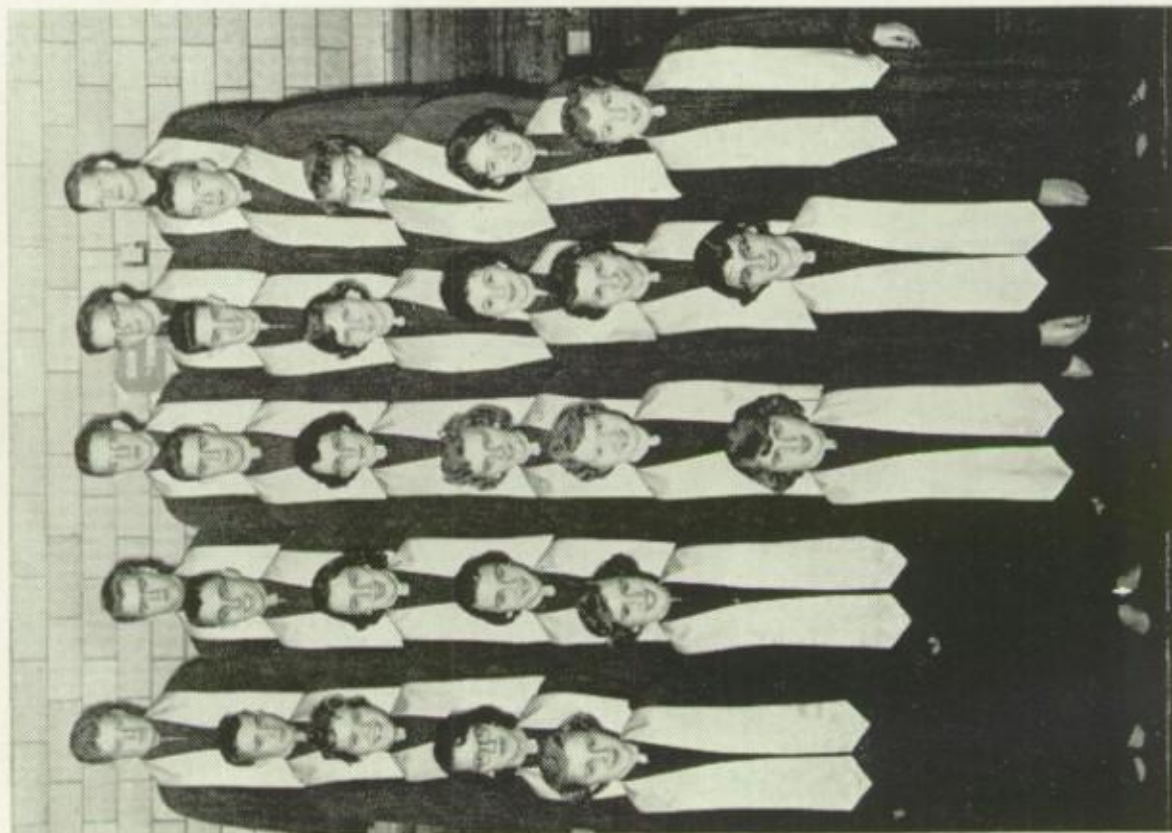

When people get together to sing nothing but good can come of it. Hickory has a good choir made up of senior high students with singing ability. These students learn to sing together and to recognize notes and staffs the language of the music world.

This experience is of definite value to those who expect to follow a musical career but of even greater spiritual value to the group. From the group will come those who enhance religion by singing in the choir, those who enhance patriotic gatherings singing "Our National Anthem," and those who enhance just plain good feeling singing around a campfire.

Life isn't made up solely of coins, concrete, steel, gasoline and gadgets. Life is made up of people and people need those unexplainable satisfactions that come only from cultural activities such as music.

Mrs. Caldwell, our new vocal music teacher, has done much to advance the cause of good music. She has guided the choir through many activities, the main ones being the Christmas caroling and the Spring Choral Festival.

THE YEARBOOK

A lot of work and long hours are put in by the students and their one big reward is to see a yearbook that is really outstanding.

This year a new wide page book had is beginning. Far different from the past books this new panoramic yearbook enables us to present better group pictures. It is only the beginning, and with hard work and patience the book will be one of the best in the area.

Mr. Brinkley serves as advisor and Jim McClimans is editor.

HICKORY LEAF

The school paper is the source of information for school activities, parties, teachers, schedules, and school functions.

The members of the Hickory Leaf Staff work hard to meet their deadlines. There are many moments of uncertainty but the paper is always issued on schedule.

News must be gathered, written, typed, and proofread. This is all the job of the members, and how they pride in making the school paper a student publication. A little supervision must be given in any job, and Mr. Brinkley is always around to help.

Frannie Webster is proud of his Class A Champions. The boys worked hard and are to be congratulated for their display of basketball skills.

Hard work and the will to win helps any team, and this year the Hornets had these qualifications.

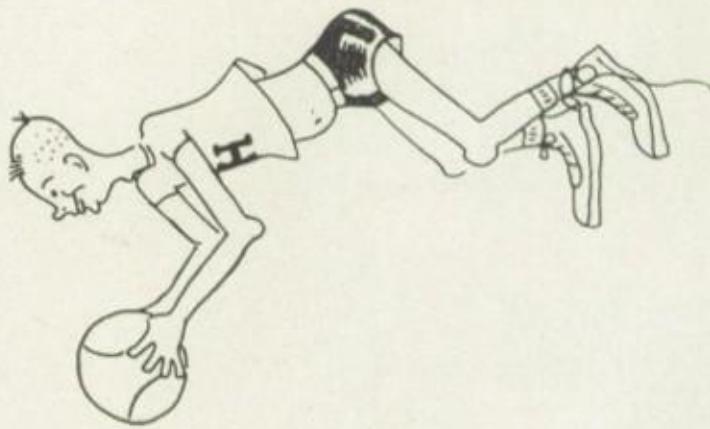

Hickory topped Sharpville on the latter's court to gain Class A honors. They then beat Erie Tech to advance into the semi-finals with Meadville to see who would get the District 10 title.

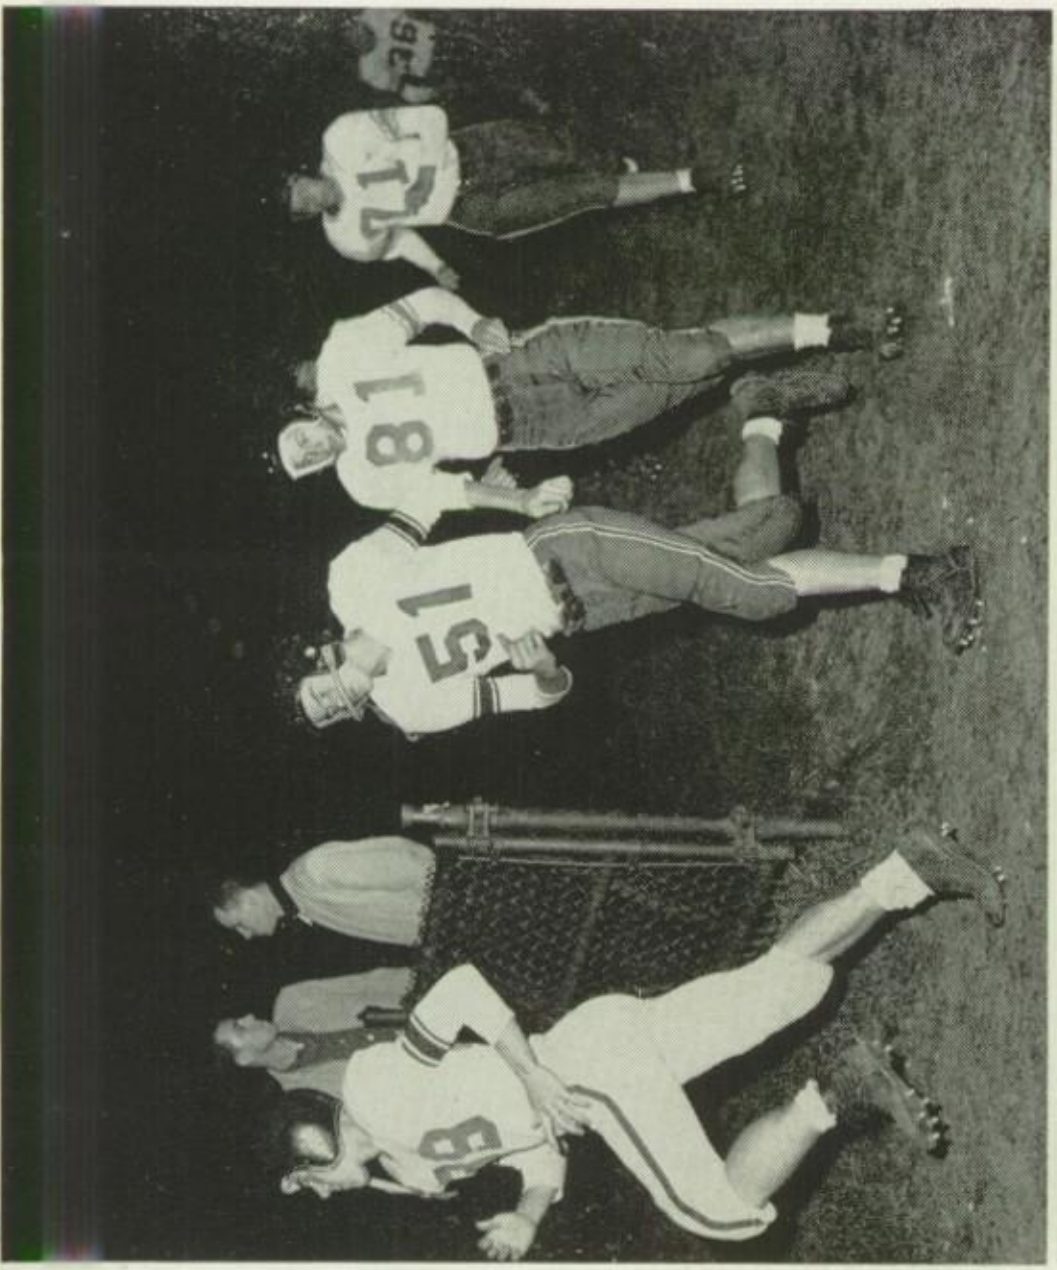

Our boys showed good sportsmanship throughout the season. The student body stood behind the team at all times.

Ray Wilcox set a new scoring record for Hickory this year making a total of 530 points. A new team scoring record for one season was also set with a total of 1476 points.

Football Squad

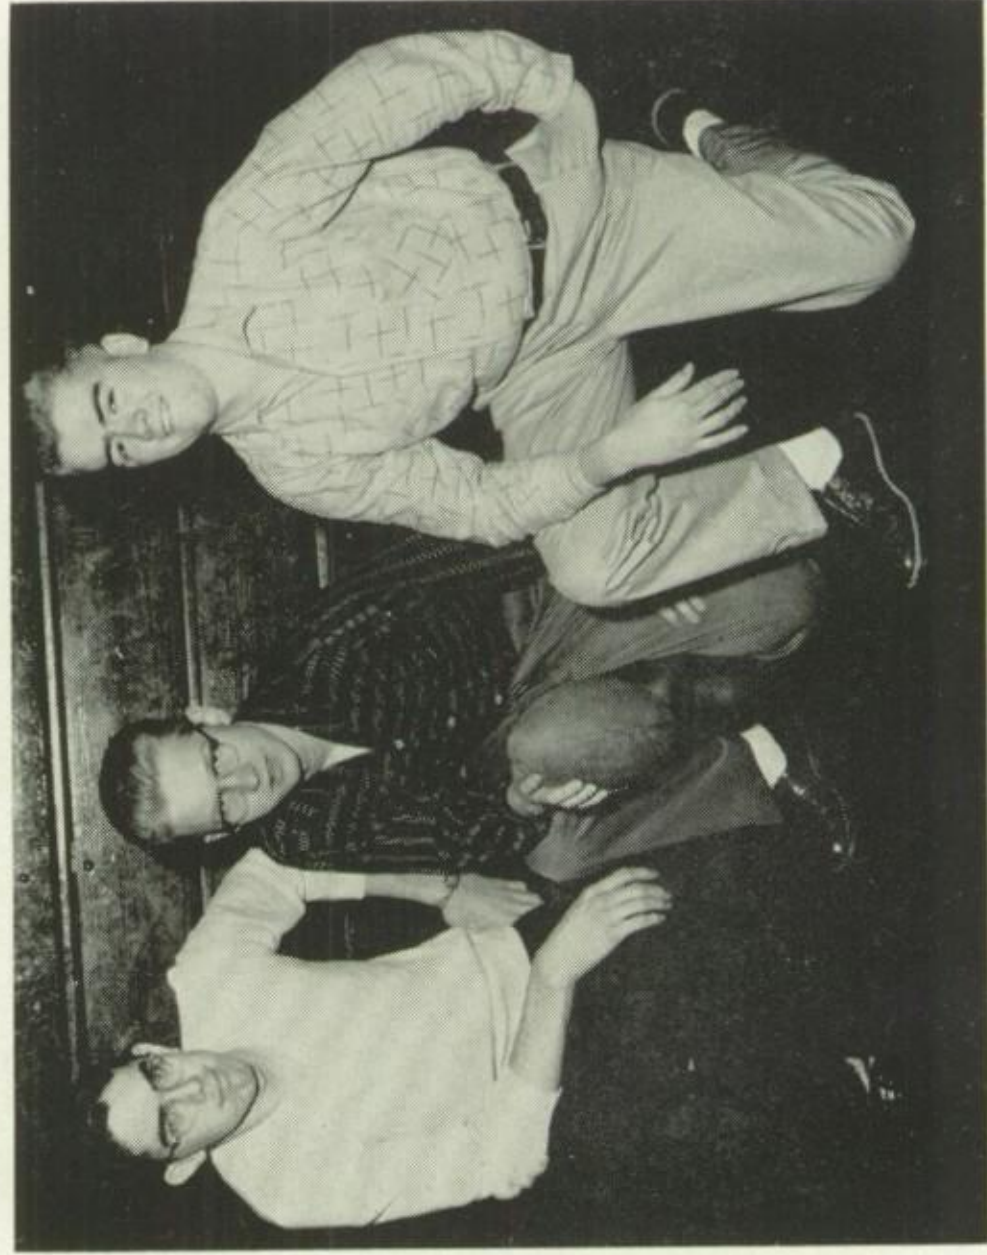

These rough and tough boys are the ones to be congratulated for the fine games they played for Hickory.

Training is tough, but nothing can take the place of the thrill gained from each game.

Learning the fine points of sportsmanship is the main objective which occupies the thoughts of those guys who play football. The will to win and the will to accept defeat is the making of any team and any player.

All the boys admire their coaches for the way in which lessons in spiritual and physical endurance are pointed out.

Cheerleaders

Golf Team

This season marks Hickory's seventh campaign on the golf links.

Mr. Jack Gaus, coach and former Hickory golfer, said that golf is not only emphasized for youthful pleasure, but is also meant to carry over into later life as a means of recreation and enjoyment.

An annual Intramural Tournament is held for golf hopefuls. All junior and senior boys are eligible to compete. This tournament provides the basic training needed to make the varsity.

This year's team has an honorable legacy to live up to. Last year's team won seven and lost one. In the Yankee Run Tournament Hickory placed fourth in a field of twelve teams.

Row 1 — D. Elliott, R. Martin, T. McConnell, D. Gaugh, B. Amsdell, T. Stone.
Row 2 — Mr. Gaus, F. Jacobson, T. Mattson, E. Marenchin, R. Halula, T. Wheaton.

Gym Leaders

These boys do a good job in helping to run the gym classes for Mr. Gaus and Mr. Rossi. Each year a new group of boys are selected to help with the duties and planning of the classes.

This year the gym leaders sponsored the faculty basketball games played against other school faculty teams.

The boys are chosen because they have the quality to lead a group and take over classes when the teachers are absent.

At the end of the school term a boy is picked for his outstanding work throughout the year.

GYM LEADERS

Row 2 — P. Sewall, F. Green, M. Burdett, D. Johnston, B. Brooks, D. Sharisky.
Row 3 — E. Holsapfel, P. Fuller, J. Marenchin, T. Stone, D. Kelly.

Coaches

Much credit should be given to our coaches here at Hickory. They not only supervise the boys on the teams, but are regarded as being personal friends to all the students. This relationship between student and coach is a big factor in the outcome of any athletic or scholastic activity.

The members of the coaching staff tend to become ideals in the eyes of the student body.

Their friendship has a tendency to stabilize the boys during the tense moments of heated contests. This stabilizing tendency will, in many cases, carry over to those critical times that each of the players will have to face in life.

COACHES

Seated: Mr. Webster, Mr. Reynolds, Mr. Stewart.
Standing: Mr. Ohr, Mr. Rossi, Mr. Gaus, Mr. McBride.

Gym Teachers

Physical education is taught not only for the development of the body, but also for social development. When playing games, one no longer has the personal feeling, but it dissolves and the person reacts toward every other person as an equal.

Games are taught which in later life will help an individual make an adjustment to social living.

Pleasure as well as learning social adjustment is acquired by the students in our physical education classes.

GYM TEACHERS

Mrs. Harsman, Miss Culler, Mr. Gaus, Mr. Rossi.
